FEC TO PUBLISH BROCHURE SERIES

WASHINGTON -- A series of brochures discussing specific portions of the Federal Election Campaign Act is being prepared by the Federal Election Commission and will be available to the public in the near future. Each brochure covers a topic which has attracted interest of the general public or groups which deal with the election law.

Written so that they can be readily understood, the brochures' subjects parallel and expand on other Commission publications, such as the Campaign Guide Series and the FEC monthly newsletter, the Record.

Among subjects included are: Volunteer Activity, Local Party Activity, Candidate Registration, Using FEC Campaign Finance Information, Contributions, Independent Expenditures, Corporate and Labor Communications, Corporate and Labor Facilities, Political Ads and Solicitations, and Advisory Opinions.
