SAN FRANCISCO SETTING FOR FEC CAMPAIGN FINANCE SEMINAR

WASHINGTON -- The Federal Election Commission will host a one and one-half day campaign finance seminar at the Hotel Nikko in San Francisco September 30 and October 1.

Topics to be covered will be of interest to federal candidates, political party committees and corporate and labor PAC's, and will assist them as they prepare for the upcoming 1994 elections. Conference workshops will be conducted by FEC Commissioners and staff and will include areas of election law which raise the most questions within the regulated community.

A workshop on the California campaign finance law will be presented by the California Fair Political Practices Commission (FPPC) and a representative of the Internal Revenue Service will be available to answer election-related tax questions.

Note to editors and correspondents:

**Reporters interested in attending any of the workshops should contact the FEC Press Office in advance.

**FEC Chairman Scott Thomas and Vice-Chairman Trevor Potter will be available for interviews or editorial briefings concerning current election law and legislative proposals for campaign finance reform. Interested parties should contact the FEC Press Office.
